

Thomas Trezza and Allison Johansen receive their Doctorates in Physical Therapy:

At Physical Therapy Services of Morristown, LLC; our clinicians are always at the forefront of training and education, learning new techniques to better serve their patients. With Direct Access a reality in New Jersey, continuing education and advanced training are more important than ever.

We are pleased to announce that Allison Johansen and Thomas Trezza were both awarded doctoral degrees in physical therapy (DPT). Thomas Trezza, MSPT, clinical director & owner received his DPT from Temple University, in Philadelphia, PA. "I found it very rewarding to train and interact in this type of forum with therapists from all over the county" says Trezza "the curriculum has shed a new light on the way I practice."

Allison received her DPT from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ). Johansen explains "It was extremely rewarding to be part of the program. I believe that it will help me in the diagnoses and treatment of advanced symptoms in my patients".

Both Allison and Thomas' course work included research methodology, outcomes measurement and medical screening. Congratulations to both for achieving their Doctor of Physical Therapy degrees.